PUBLIC SERVICE ALLIANCE

Empowering America's 40 million current and former public servants, across political lines, to better and more affordably protect themselves and their families.

The Problem

Public service in America is more dangerous today than in recent history.
That's a terrible business model for effective government and American democracy.

Spotlight: The Security Map

PSA and The Impact Project – which are housed in the same social enterprise – built The Security Map, which was featured on CBS News and is one of the most comprehensive datasets on threats to America's public servants to date.
We will release an updated, follow-on map in the coming months.

Key Findings:

- Violent threats to public servants have skyrocketed over the last decade
- Threatening statements occur at 9x the rate of physical threats
- Roughly a quarter of threats are concentrated in battleground states
- Local public servants account for one-third of threats analyzed
