The Problem

Public service in America is more dangerous today than in recent history.
That's a terrible business model for effective government and American democracy.

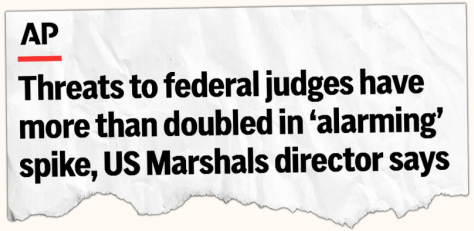

Threats have skyrocketed over the last decade

Anyone can be a target and they have little or no support

People are deterred from serving their communities

Violent Threats Span Every Level of Government

"You can't outrun my Glock 9mm gun. Take a dirt nap. Sell that b* as a sex slave to ISIS."
– Threats against local school board member

Office of Public Affairs
U.S. Department of Justice

"Ten million plus patriots will surround you when you least expect it. … We'll [expletive] kill you. … [Expletive] your family, [expletive] your life, and you deserve a [expletive] throat to the knife."
– Threat against local election worker

FOX 11 NEWS

"People will hunt you down and your family like animals."
– Threat against state legislator and their family

"Wishing you and your freak show 'family' nothing but the worst. Praying they are all assaulted by the hordes of vagrants you have unleashed on the street."
– Threat against mayor and her family

BUSINESS INSIDER

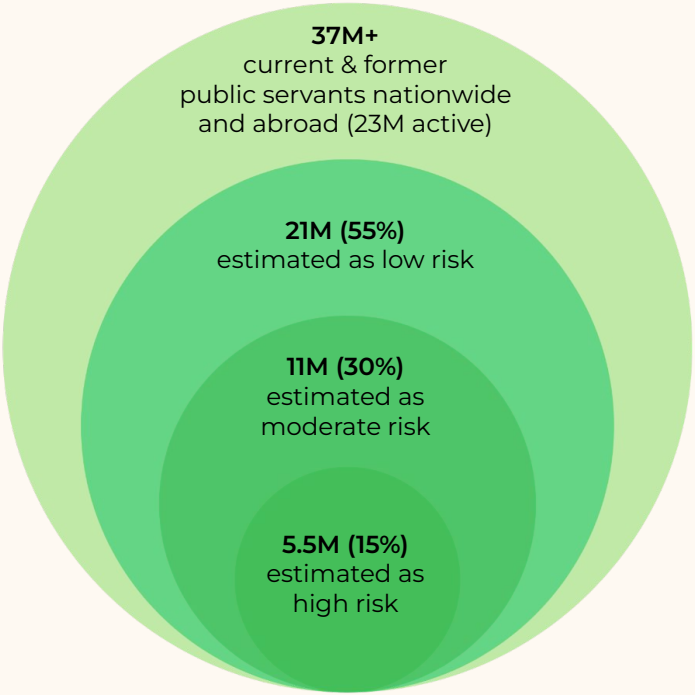

"I hope you die. I hope everybody in your fing family dies. I hope everybody in your fing staff dies."
– Threat against member of Congress, his family, and staff

EYEWITNESS NEWS

"The remainder of my life will be dedicated to assassinating judges, attorneys, and a police station's entire shift staff."
– Threat, sent to a county judge, against local judges, attorneys, and law enforcement officers

"I wish somebody would f assassinate your a."
– Threat against federal judge
